

You Should Have Seen This Wallflower Bloom

Another party another midnight hour
Another lonely corner for this wallflower
This is how it had always been Until she walked in
You would not have recognized me
When Miss Right was right beside me
I became somebody new
When she walked into the room
You should have seen this wallflower bloom
All my shyness disappeared
Suddenly I knew no fear
For the first time in my life
I used all of the right lines
I made all of the right moves
Like an honor student in charm school
I became somebody new
When she walked into the room
You should have seen this wallflower bloom
It was strange as it could be
This change that came over me
When she walked into the room
You should have seen this wallflower bloom
Another party another midnight hour
But no lonely corner for this wallflower

Copyright
Larry Sherman Rogers
3529 S. 34
Fort Smith AR 72903
479-648-0967
lsrogers13@yahoo.com